Conquer Your Fear of Public Speaking

Tools & Resources

As a speaker, your biggest asset will be your story, but these resources will help you make sure you deliver it in a powerful way and that it reaches as many of your target audience members as possible.

1. YouCanBookMe

Make it as easy as possible for people to book you by posting your Speaker's Calendar on your website. Use YouCanBook.me on mobiles, tablets and desktops. Share it with your team. Customize it with your own fonts, colors and CSS.

Pricing: Free at basic level. Paid plans start at $10 per month.

2. Ummo

Use this smartphone app while you practice your speech or presentation. It will help you track your pace, word power, clarity and bad habits like saying "umm" and "ahhh". Uses "cutting edge" speech recognition and speech algorithms. You can also customize it, and get feedback if you wish.

Free. Get it at the iTunes App store.

3. Contractual.ly

Allows you to create forms and enable eSigning. You can share and edit them, with online storage for easy retrieval.

You can also attach schedules or files to any Contractual.ly form you create, and eSignatures are encrypted.

Pricing: Paid plans start at $850 per month.

4. Parley Pro

Similar to Contractual.ly. Allows eSignatures. Allows team members to collaborate on master document, online.

Pricing: Paid plans start at $30 per month.

5. VideoMakerFX

Make demo videos that look as if they were filmed by pros. The big advantages of this software also include ease of use, plus many special effects to add variety, interest and impact to your presentation. You can include effects such as:

- ✓ Whiteboard style
- ✓ Photo slideshows
- ✓ Animation effects

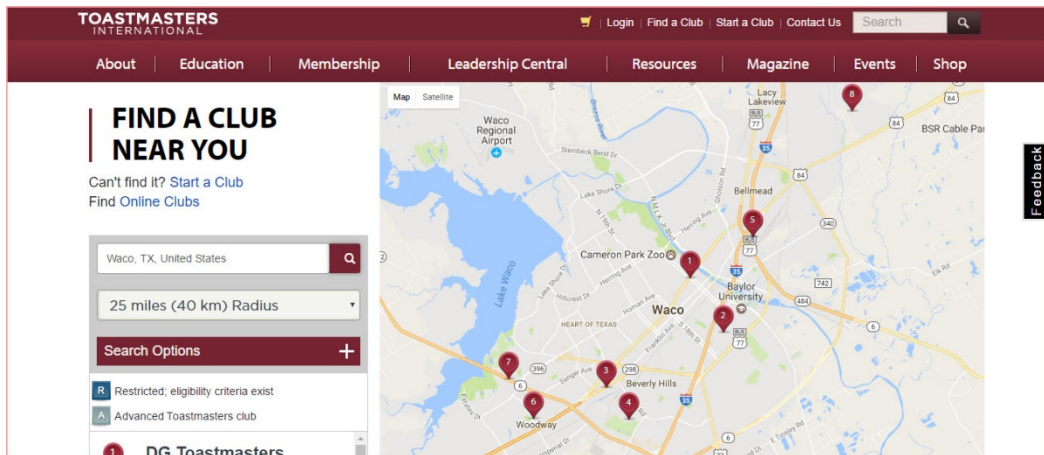

CONQUER YOUR FEAR OF PUBLIC SPEAKING: TOOLS

- ✓ Animated backgrounds, slide and graphics collections
- ✓ 20+ royalty-free music tracks
- ✓ Backgrounds and scenes
- ✓ Presentations

And more—including font and color customization.

Pricing: One-time fee of $67 (on sale for $47 at time of writing).

6. Toastmasters

One of the most powerful and effective ways to develop and hone your public speaking skills, Toastmasters has been running since 1924.

These informal public speaking clubs allow you to practice on other members and gain feedback, if desired. They are highly supportive and nurturing, and a Toastmasters chapter is a great place to go if you need lots of live practice before you dare step out as a paid speaker.

How it works: You find the nearest branches of Toastmasters to you using the “Find a club” online feature, and go check out the branches that interest you. There is no obligation to speak—you can attend and observe as a guest until you find and formally join the branch that feels right for you.

Pricing: Dues of approximately $45 USD are paid every six months, once you become a member. New members also pay a one-time fee of $20 USD.

7. Pro Metronome

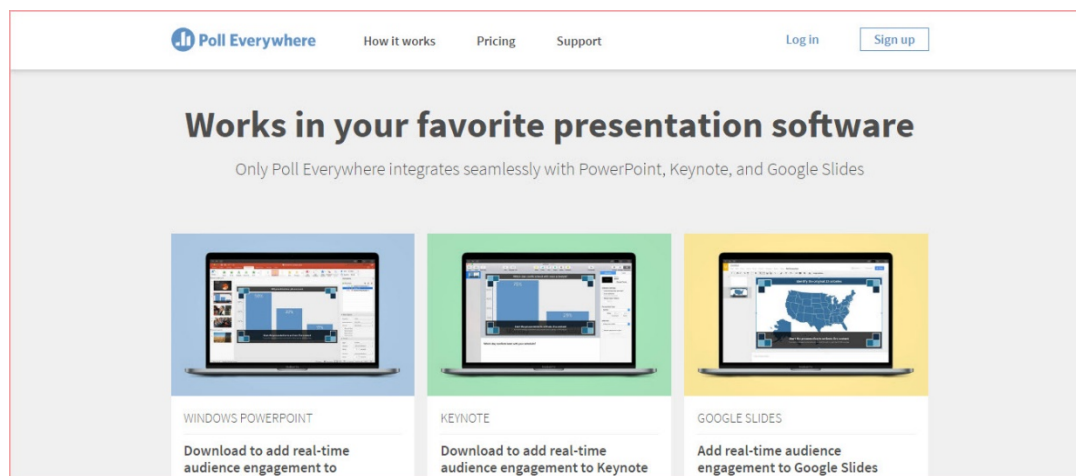

If you have chronic trouble with pacing—if you habitually speak too slowly or too quickly—download this Android app from Google Play.

It describes itself eloquently: “The free version is packed with features like the newly designed time signature interface – customized it any way you want. 13 time-keeping styles let you choose beat sounds that work for you – even a counting voice. With RTP (Real-Time Playback) technology, it's more precise than a traditional mechanical metronome.”

It also boasts four different beat volumes including “mute”.

Pricing: Free, but you can upgrade to a paid version for even more features.

8. Poll Everywhere

This powerful new app allows you to interact with your audiences during your presentation by using it in conjunction with PowerPoint, Keynote, or Google Slides. You can use the app to poll your audience, and have them respond in real-time on their mobiles, Tweet or visit a website to enter their answers.

CONQUER YOUR FEAR OF PUBLIC SPEAKING: TOOLS

As they do so, your presentation chart updates instantly and automatically, so they can see transparent, real results. You create your chart and questions ahead of time, customizing it with your own colors, fonts and images. Not only does it make your audience a vital, interactive part of your presentation, but it also helps build trust.

Pricing: Free—but you'll probably want to upgrade to either the Basic plan at $19 per month or the Presentation plan at $79 per month for more features (and more responses allowed).

9. Apps for Public Speakers

AppAdvice.com presents a nice selection of Apps for public speakers, many of them used by public speaking pros. Read about:

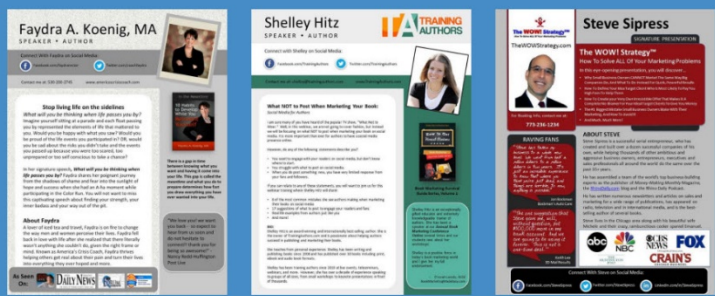

- ✓ mPrompt (teleprompter)
- ✓ Quote Book (over 3,000 quotes at your fingertips)
- ✓ Outliner for iPad
- ✓ Speaker Clock

And more.

Pricing: Varies from .99 cents to $4.99 per app.

10. Speaker One-Sheet Templates

Well your wait is finally over! You can be like these folks who created their one-sheets and were SO excited they posted them on Facebook within MINUTES of ordering!

The image displays three examples of Speaker One-Sheet templates. Each template is a vertical rectangular card with a blue header and a white body. The first template is for Faydra A. Koenig, MA, SPEAKER • AUTHOR, with a photo of her and a list of services including 'Stop Being the Only One in the Room' and 'About Faydra'. The second template is for Shelley Hitz, SPEAKER • AUTHOR, with a photo of her and a list of services including 'What NOT to Post When Marketing Your Book' and 'About Shelley'. The third template is for Steve Sipress, SPEAKER • AUTHOR, with a photo of him and a list of services including 'The WOW! Strategy' and 'About Steve'. Each template also includes contact information and social media links.

Created by public speaking coach and author, Felicia Slattery, these templates are the preferred go-to tool of many top coaches.

Choose from a variety of designs in the color combinations of your choice. 45 templates in multiple designs and formats.

Pricing: $97 (Single Use License)
